“ My favorite thing about Danny was the fact he was going through so much and so much pain, but he always seemed more concerned about others than himself. He loved his family very much and his friends. He could smile so big it would radiate the whole room it seemed. He will be truly missed by many many people, he affected anyone he came in contact with a type of feel good and it was going to be ok, emotion. i will pray for his family dealing with this loss and his friends.--janea b.
